IN THE LAST TEN YEARS

I worked at Sandia National Laboratories in Albuquerque, New Mexico for 31 years. During the last eight years there, we installed and implemented online update and retrieval procedures and processes for the Record of Assembly System. This included providing product identification elements, i.e. serial numbers, manufactures, lot numbers and date codes with support for ongoing applications and data clean-up within the Nuclear Weapons Complex. After retiring in March of 2008, we moved to Texas and traveled for six weeks in Europe. We were able to visit some of Suzanne's High School friends and husbands while in England and Wales.
